

Self-love has become kind of a phenomenon as of late. As our society and culture gets more and more into the idea of “self-care,” the concept of truly accepting and loving yourself has become all the more relevant. And why shouldn’t you love yourself? After all, you only get one option: To be you. You might as well love who you are!

-Blackheart